

Glead Ecological & Environmental Services

'Glead' - from the Anglo Saxon to 'glide'...

GEES, is an innovative ecological consultancy service that endeavours to secure 'win-win', cost-effective solutions for its clients and the natural environment. It sets out to help its customers 'glide' through their ecological and environmental challenges.

Glead Ecological & Environmental Services provides:

- Ecological and environmental advice
- Ecological surveys
- Ecological and environmentally themed training and staff development
- Project management and development support for 'community-orientated' environmental projects

GEES's Principal consultant, Keith Bowey (BSc Hons, MSc) has 30 years experience working in nature conservation and the field of ecology. This culminated in his managing, between 2004 and 2009, the north east of England's highest profile wildlife project, the multi-award winning Northern Kites Project.

Training products provided by GEES include:

- 'Pulling it All Together' ~ Delivering Biodiversity in Partnership & With People - a one-day course, designed to help organisations in the environmental sector develop a new perspective on partnership working and how to increase the involvement of 'people' in their projects and processes
- 'A Smash and Grab Introduction to Wildlife and the Law' - this interactive day session is designed for those who need a practical but enjoyable introduction to the subject. It provides a guide to key legislation and how the law is applied to wildlife and countryside issues 'in the real world'
- 'Events & Guided Walks - What Are They, How Do You Do Them?' - designed to help event planners/leaders in environmental organisations that are new to the process, or need to take a fresh look at how they organise guided walks and events, how they can achieve what they need from this apparently simple, but sometimes difficult, process (day session)

- 'Delivering Wildlife Programmes to Hard to Reach Groups' - a one day introduction to some of the practical considerations when trying to deliver wildlife work to and for a range of 'hard to reach' groups/communities

Within its range of services GEES can offer support with:

- The design and delivery of environmental and heritage initiatives, including the preparation of funding bids
- Research & feasibility studies, including community consultations connected with countryside and ecological issues
- Environmental and ecological input to development projects
- A range of habitat & species surveys, (including licensed barn owl survey and protected species work)

Keith Bowey is a member of the Institute of Ecology and Environmental Management (MIEEM), a Fellow of the Royal Society for the Arts (FRSA) and a Millennium Fellow. He is a practical, highly motivated ecological and environmental practitioner with an extensive and proven track record of delivering high profile projects in partnership with a wide range of organisations. In 2010, he was awarded the title of regional Biodiversity Champion by the OPAL awards programme. He is one of the north east of England's best known ornithologists and was the lead author and principle editor of the authoritative The Birds of Durham, published in June 2012.

Keith Bowey with Springwatch's Chris Packham

For more information about GEES' services and tariff, send an email to: keithbowey@btinternet.com

Glead Ecological & Environmental Services (GEES)

'Carmyllie', Thornley Lane, Lockhaugh, Rowlands Gill, Tyne & Wear, NE39 1AX
Mobile: 078500 57822 email: keithbowey@btinternet.com